education campus statute or that at least 95% of the school's student population meets a combination of these requirements. The bill reduces the percentage to 90%. The bill also expands some of the criteria for being identified as an at-risk student for purposes of the alternative education campus statute.

The bill creates the school quality review pilot program to create a base for qualitative measurement of the performance of alternative education campuses. An alternative education campus that participates in the pilot program will receive annual on-site reviews of its operations. The pilot program starts in the 2016-17 school year and continues through the 2018-19 school year. The department of education must review the findings of the pilot program and recommend whether to expand the school quality reviews to additional alternative education campuses.
