Summary of Legislation

To appear on the ballot, all citizen-initiated ballot measures must collect signatures statewide equal to at least five percent of the votes cast for the office of the Secretary of State at the last election. For citizen-initiated constitutional changes, proponents must also collect the signatures of at least two percent of registered voters in each state senate district. House Concurrent Resolution 22-1001 refers a measure to the 2022 ballot that applies the two-percent signature requirement in each state senate district also apply for all citizen-initiated measures making statutory changes. If that referred measure is approved by at least 55 percent of voters, this bill makes conforming amendments to the elections code.

Assessment of No Fiscal Impact

The bill makes necessary statutory changes if voters in 2022 approve a referred measure to amend the state constitution. Fiscal impacts from the new signature requirements under HCR 22-1001 are discussed in the fiscal note for that measure. These conforming amendments to the general election code do not change the expenditures, revenue, or workload of any state or local government. For this reason, the bill is assessed as having no fiscal impact.
