Summary of Legislation

In 2021, the Judicial Department's Child Welfare Appeals Workgroup published a report with recommendations to improve the appeals process for relinquishment, adoption, and dependency and neglect cases. The full report and recommendations can be found here:

https://www.courts.state.co.us/Media/Opinion_Docs/Appellate%20Workgroup%20Final%20Report%20\(2021-04-23\).pdf.pdf)

This bill requires the workgroup to monitor implementation of these recommendations for two years, beginning in January 2022, including:

- determining if other issues are contributing to delays in appeals;
- studying opportunities to reduce delays in child welfare appeals; and
- providing related training.

The workgroup must report to the General Assembly on the status of its activities by January 1, 2023, and must issue a final report by July 1, 2024. The bill also requires all written orders by a district court for an appealable hearing to be made within 35 days of the hearing.

State Expenditures

The bill minimally increases state expenditures for multiple agencies in FY 2022-23 and FY 2022-24, as described below.

Child Welfare Appeals Workgroup. The bill increases expenditures for the Judicial Department, the Department of Human Services, and the Office of the Respondent Parents' Counsel to participate in the Child Welfare Appeals Workgroup and to publish a final report. This work can be accomplished within existing appropriations.

Written orders in appealable hearings. The bill requires district courts to issue written orders in hearings that involve appealable issues within 35 days. This will require judicial officers to prioritize issuance of these orders, but will not increase trial court workload. Therefore, no additional appropriations are required.

Effective Date

The bill was signed into law by the Governor on March 30, 2022, and takes effect on August 9, 2022, assuming no referendum petition is filed.
