department of local affairs (department) that have coal transition communities, employee associations that represent workers in coal transition communities, and economic development councils formed by the department to implement the most effective projects and programs for those communities.

A public entity may invest public funds only as allowed by law. The bill specifies that the investment of a payment or settlement to offset the socioeconomic impacts to a community or government from the closure of a coal mine or coal power generating station is not subject to these investment limitations.

Currently, 70% of the money credited to the local government severance tax fund (fund) must be distributed to political subdivisions that are socially or economically impacted by the development, processing, or energy conversion of minerals and mineral fuels subject to taxation and used for the planning, construction, and maintenance of public facilities and for the provision of public services, and to compensate political subdivisions for loss of property tax revenue resulting from the deduction of severance taxes paid in the determination of the valuation for assessment of producing mines. The bill requires the executive director of the department (executive director) to annually expend this money as follows:

- First, an amount equal to the least of $15 million, the total amount of money available, or the amount of compensation applied for to compensate political subdivisions for the loss of property tax revenue resulting from the deduction of severance taxes paid in the determination of the valuation for assessment of producing mines; or incurred by political subdivisions that are coal transition communities created as due to the closure of coal-fired power plants. The executive director must consider the economic needs of a political subdivision when granting money and must not require a political subdivision to contribute money to be eligible for a grant.
- Second, an amount equal to the least of $75 million, the total remaining amount of money available, or the amount of grants applied for through 3 grant cycles per year for grants to political subdivisions socially or economically impacted by the development, processing, or energy conversion of minerals and mineral fuels subject to severance taxation and used for the planning, construction, and maintenance of public facilities and for the provision of public services; and
- Third, any remaining money in excess of the lesser of $90 million or the total amount of compensation and grants actually awarded as described above must be distributed annually by the executive director to political subdivisions based upon community need as determined in consultation with the Colorado Municipal League, Colorado Counties, Inc., and the Special District Association of Colorado, and to other recipients as provided by existing law.
