On motion of Majority Leader Rodriguez, and with the unanimous consent of those elected to the Senate, the Senate stood in recess to hear the opening day remarks of Senate President Steve Fenberg and Senate Minority Leader Paul Lundeen.

Senate in recess..

The text of President Fenberg's remarks follow.

Mr. Majority Leader, Mr. President Pro Tempore, Mr. Minority Leader - friends, colleagues, loved ones - good morning, and welcome to the second session of the 74th General Assembly of the Colorado State Senate!

It's an honor to be with you all here today. I want to start off by recognizing a few folks.

My wife Lindsay is here today. Lindsay, your support has been immense, but I also know there isn't a bigger fan of term limits than you.

And of course the real reason why I come to work every day...my best friends in the whole wide world: my daughters Isa and Marlow.

My Board of County Commissioners is here as well: Claire Levy, Marta Loachamin, and Ashley Stolzman.

And the Mayors from my district: Boulder Mayor Aaron Brocket, Louisville Mayor Chris Leh, and Superior Mayor Mark Lacis.

It's been a year of change for many of us - and we have some new faces and roles in the Chamber I'd like to acknowledge.

Most importantly, I want to extend an extremely warm welcome to our newest Senator, Dafna Michaelson Jenet!

She's been with us for a few months now - and of course most of us have worked with her in the House - but we are still very excited to work alongside you, Senator, and we look forward to the great work you'll do here in the Senate.

Senator Michaelson Jenet's arrival here was necessitated by the departure of former Majority Leader and current traitor, Dominick Moreno, who broke our hearts this summer when he decamped for the greener pastures - across the street at the City of Denver.

I used to refer to Dom as my work husband. He would quickly correct me and say he felt a little more comfortable in the work wife role. And while I am excited to work alongside the new Majority Leader, I gotta admit, I am not quite sure I'm ready to call you my wife just yet, Robert.

But I'm sure we'll get there. Congratulations on your new role.

Another new addition to our leadership team is Senator Faith Winter, who is now serving as our Assistant Majority Leader. Congratulations to you as well, Senator.

You'll also see a few new faces up here at the desk and on the floor. I'm excited to introduce our new members of the non-partisan staff to the team. Tammy, Eric, Mary, Shannon, Wayne, Mary Ann - welcome aboard!

As for those who came back - Ryan, Jonathan, John, Frank, Ted, Matthew, Sadia, Rick, Tom, Randy, and Ben - thanks for sticking around, and for your continued service to the Senate.

I want to recognize two people who have been with me on this journey from almost the very beginning. Mindy Miller and Nellie Moran. We've been through a lot together and

I'd also like to take a moment to recognize someone who we all thought would have ridden off into the sunset by now, maybe seeing a show at the Sphere or sitting out at the pool with a cocktail...but you just can't seem to quit us, can you?

The true public servant of the Senate. The most committed and caring Secretary this chamber has ever had, Cindi Markwell. You're like a second encore from your favorite band-where you know in your heart that if you just clap harder and longer, they'll come back. And you did and we're forever grateful for it. Please join me in thanking Cindi for all that she has given to the Colorado Senate.

However, Cindi, I think you have now retired 17 times. So, I'm going to say this into the record: Cindi, when we have late nights or when a certain Senator starts "Bobbing" for hours upon hours, you should deputize your very competent front desk staff, go home, be with family, or just simply get some rest. Eventually we're going to need to figure out how to exist without you, so we might as well start practicing now.

It takes a lot to keep this place running. Our system of self-governance depends on people like Cindi, and everyone else in this room, in this building, and in our state to help ensure civil society and our institutions persist. This is what I want to speak about today on this inaugural day of the second session of the 74th General Assembly-my last session serving with you in this chamber.

The 35 of us have been given an incredible honor by the people of Colorado. Each of us plays an integral role in the democratic process. Our job is to take the values, beliefs, and experiences of our constituents and translate that into casting votes on their behalf, on issues related to just about every topic you could think of.

From critically important topics like license plate designs, to uncontroversial, mundane bills like land use, we have the amazing opportunity to weigh in on a myriad of issues.

After all, the legislative process is how we, as a group of millions of people who come from different walks of life, who have different priorities, and who maybe even believe in different facts, come together and make collective decisions for our state.

We are called politicians. Public figures. Legislators. Lawmakers. Often we're called much worse.

Yes we are all of those things. But we are also something far more important, if less prestigious: we are caretakers. Caretakers of this great chamber. Of our great state. Of this democracy.

The democracy we're charged with defending is the foundation that underpins our republic. The ideals of our democracy can and should remain stable - but our values, our ideas, and the people that animate and utilize those concepts to effect change and govern our great state can, and should, evolve.

I used to think, back when I first got elected, that my job was to be a radical change maker, to push the boundaries every day for what I believed in. To be more of an activist than a politician.

I now have a much simpler, perhaps less exciting, vision of what the job is.

Yes, we are political actors who have agendas and ideologies. On the campaign trail, we're candidates. At the town hall, we're public officials. On the nightly news, we're spokespeople.

But when you walk into this building, when you sit at the dais in committee in front of a nameplate, when you sit at one of the 35 oak desks in this chamber that have been here more than a century, you're simply a moment in time. You are one of 35 who have the honor-the responsibility-to ensure there will be moments in time after you leave.

It may seem like a low bar, but our first job is to not mess it up.

Maybe I'm full of it. I drank the Kool-Aid and sold out. And this whole place is actually designed to keep the status quo. I walk up the steps of the rotunda every morning and get intoxicated by the marble and beautiful gold dome and stained glass windows. Maybe it was built that way to get us to fall in line and defend the institution instead of attacking it with change.

Maybe.

But it worked - and my time here has made me okay with it. Because if this institution-this thing we call democracy-was simply just a shell to be filled with political agendas every two or four years, it would be a recipe for a volatile government that probably would've collapsed generations ago.

If this place was simply a vessel for the populism of the day that swings with the blowing winds of trends and slogans, the pendulum would eventually swing off its hinge. It would result in the erosion of the institution. Of democracy. Perhaps even civil order itself.

Our founders and the architects of this great civic temple didn't-and couldn't have-accounted for some of the things threatening it today. One of those threats is that an enormous amount of political debate no longer occurs primarily in the physical boundaries of these marble walls - or even in face-to-face conversations of any type. More often than not, it's happening on our phones.

It's happening through anonymous tweets where civil debate has been replaced by algorithms that are designed for outrage, not understanding.

Or it's a nightly news anchor who has made the calculus that viewership rises not with stories of bipartisanship, problem-solving, and collegiality, but with deadlock, drama, and corruption.

Or it's increasingly us-the legislators-who sit there thinking about the quippy social media post that scores points with our followers instead of taking the time to walk across the room and talk to our colleague. Too often our words and actions breed cynicism, feed hate for those we disagree with, and encourage more yelling, and less listening.

We must resist the urge to be performers. We must remind ourselves that to be a caretaker of this institution, we need to legislate for constituents, not for twitter. We must live up to the same standards that every man or woman who sat in our desks before us over the last 150 years has lived up to.

That's not to say our democracy and our institutions should be frozen in time. And, of course, our goal should not be to preserve the status quo simply for status quo's sake. Just because that's how it's always been done isn't good enough. That's not what I mean by calling on us to be caretakers.

But the way we approach debating ideas and how we treat each other - in other words, how we show up in our democracy - impacts the stability of the institution itself.

If you think about it, with all that is working against it, the fact that we still have a democracy is actually quite remarkable. It takes hard work to stay above the fray, especially when the alternative seems to be rewarded these days. But if we've learned anything the last several years, it's that democracy is incredibly fragile.

In the blink of an eye, our entire world can change. Just ask the Israelis to compare their lives from October 6th to October 8th. Or the Palestinian civilians who suddenly not only don't have a home, they don't have a neighborhood, a family, or even a functioning society.

It's mind-boggling how fast our politics-and our world-can change these days. And it's only speeding up.

In the coming years, our democracy and our institutions will be tested like they've never been tested before:

- The promise and peril of AI.
- The threat of a court-declared insurrectionist, a man who fomented a violent attack on our nation's Capital and our democracy once again rising to power.
- Multiple wars raging across the globe backed by superpowers, perhaps as preview proxies for larger, more existential battles yet to come.

So, being a caretaker of an institution might not be why we ran for office. but, if you think about all that is happening in this crazy world right now, and all the forces that are actively working against our democracy's survival, it suddenly seems like the most courageous and important thing we could possibly do with the positions of power that we hold, is to simply do our part to ensure it continues.

It is more important now than ever that we remind ourselves that we are here as representatives of others to engage in deliberative debate aimed at solving problems. We were not sent here to shout at those we disagree with. We were not sent here to be a protest vote. We were sent here to fight for our values, not each other. We were sent here to govern.

We know that humans are social creatures and the norms in a society are contagious. But that also means that when norms break down, that breakdown too is contagious. And you can't predict where it ends. We saw a small glimpse of that in the special session-in both chambers.

I've certainly been guilty of it myself.

We are all responsible for our actions and for their consequences. So I ask you: what will our actions be this session, and what will the consequences of those actions be for this institution?

My hope is for rigorous debate that results in better policy outcomes. My hope is for critical eyes on each piece of legislation that moves through this body, no matter if it's sponsored by Democrat or Republican. My hope is that we use the tools available to us to shape the world around us for the better. And that we do it together more often than apart, and that will result in strengthening this institution.

Yes, we should fight like hell for what we believe in. We should work day and night on crafting the policies we are passionate about. We should stand up for those who can't stand up for themselves. But, most importantly, we should double down on a commitment to do all of it with deliberation, civility, and integrity.

That's the gift that democratic legislative systems give us. They allow us, each year, to begin anew, to come to work and engage with each other's ideas, so we may confront the challenges facing us today. And each year, to recommit to how we will work with one another.

Today I'm making that commitment, and hope all of you will as well.

And let's face it-we're going to need to make that commitment together if we're going to make progress on the immense challenges facing us:

- We are still facing the impacts of climate change on our landscapes and rivers. I don't know about you, but I hope my daughters will experience the same sense of wonder that the beauty of Colorado's natural spaces instilled in me.
- But what good is clean air and healthy forests if only the rich can enjoy them? Everything has gotten more expensive. I hope for my daughters to be able to afford to raise their daughters here. To have a home where they feel safe, secure, and happy.
- And speaking of children, I hope for an education system that no longer strives for the national average, but instead sets a new standard for how to truly prepare the next generation.

Luckily, the solutions for turning those hopes into reality are right in front of us. Build more homes. Fully fund our schools. Expand transportation options. Preserve our public lands.

We have major opportunities this session to make our mark for generations to come.

Take the opportunity with school funding. Thanks to the responsible budgeting of Senators Zenzinger, Bridges, and Kirkmeyer and the Joint Budget Committee, we're finally going to eliminate the budget stabilization factor. Once and for all.

This will help us get on a path to pay teachers what their profession deserves, and provide the much-needed classroom resources our students require.

For years now, we've been shortchanging our schools, and robbing our most critical assets of the care, training, and education they need to reach their potential. School is where our kids find themselves, shape their futures, and become all that they can be.

But students, and the teachers who guide and shape their growing minds, can't reach their potential without the proper resources.

The last time we fully funded our schools at the level required by our Constitution, President Obama had yet to shock the world by wearing a tan suit. The Office was a huge hit on TV, instead of a huge hit on streaming. My hair was brown.

The hole we've dug ourselves out of is immense: over time, we've shortchanged schools to the tune of nearly $10 billion dollars.

Now, we're on a path to pay off that IOU. That's a big deal. Is it going to be enough? Of course not. But we will stop acting from a place of scarcity and move to a mindset of building for the future. We must remind ourselves that this is the floor, not the ceiling. It's the bare minimum, not the end goal.

Our kids deserve it. Our educators deserve it. Our state deserves it and our communities need it, and we're going to deliver, so that every Colorado student can get the education they need to thrive.

Another opportunity is to tackle head-on the housing affordability crisis. We need to do more to ensure more of us can afford to live, work, and play in the communities that we call home.

Population growth and a huge demand for housing has outpaced new construction, making it incredibly difficult for Coloradans to become first time homeowners, and making our state unaffordable for renters. The long tail of the pandemic is partially to blame. But policy-makers like ourselves must accept some of the responsibility as well - and we have a job to do.

If we don't do something, the opportunity to shape our state's future will slip through our hands.

Everyone deserves a safe, affordable place to call home. To achieve that, this year, we will work to help communities across the state increase the housing supply of for-sale and for-rent properties.

We'll also do more to make sure folks can stay in their homes once they've achieved their American Dream.

Spiking housing prices have brought the property tax question in Colorado to a crescendo - and it turns out the answer was definitely not a certain double-lettered ballot initiative.

We've provided significant relief to ease the pain for vulnerable folks over the past few years and during the special session - but that won't ensure we aren't in this position again in the future.

We need a long-term solution that ensures our local communities and the services we all rely on-libraries, fire departments, and schools-have the resources they need while keeping property taxes reasonable. Over the next couple of months, a bipartisan task force will work to identify those solutions, and make recommendations on delivering relief without shortchanging essential local services.

But, of course, we can't talk about just building more homes. We also need to talk about how we get to and from those homes.

The passage of SB260 a few years ago finally put us on a more sustainable path to fund our state's transportation backlog, but we can, and we must dream bigger.

For one, we have an opportunity before us to take the Federal Government up on their commitment and bring in hundreds of millions of dollars to turn a statewide transit system into a reality.

We can see a future where a statewide rail system makes it easy, affordable, and safe to travel the entire length of our great state-Fort Collins to Pueblo- without ever touching an interstate.

I can imagine regular and reliable train service to all that our mountain communities have to offer without having to first survive a harrowing drive up I-70.

And we can all imagine the impacts it will have on our traffic and emissions if that rail system serves as a backbone to expanded and reliable bus and transit service that helps take thousands of cars off our roads.

Thanks to critical funding from the Bipartisan Infrastructure Law, Colorado has the opportunity to turn the dream of a truly statewide rail system that connects to bus and transit services into reality. This session, we must ensure Colorado gets its fair share of the federal infrastructure funds, and deliver the legacy of a modern, clean, and safe transportation system for generations to come.

The list of goals we hope to accomplish is long. But we're already well on our way, and luckily we have a great team that is pushing to make these dreams reality. Later today, we'll start introducing bills that will be the first steps in the long journey of the session.

We'll introduce Senator Michaelson Jenet's bill to permanently extend the critical I Matter program, which provides up to six free mental health visits for students, and Senator Sullivan's bill to help the Colorado Bureau of Investigations to investigate and prevent gun violence. We'll introduce Senator Fields' and Senator Pelton's bipartisan bill to better support veterans, and Senator Roberts' and Senator Simpson's bipartisan bill to conserve more water.

This session we'll also be introducing bills to further our work of acknowledging the wrongs of the past while setting ourselves up to ensure inclusive opportunity for all in the future.

We'll expand access to quality, affordable healthcare and invest in programs to foster a workforce that meets our state's needs.

We'll help communities prepare for, prevent, and respond to catastrophic wildfires. 1
And that's just to start. The promise of a new session means we still have all of the time 3
4 we need to exchange ideas and work together in this laboratory of democracy to solve
5 problems. 6
I'm excited to see what we come up with. 7
8
But I'm also feeling a little bittersweet. This is my final Opening Day. 9 10
And that's ultimately a good thing. We're a citizen legislature and we must always 11 12 remember that. In the spirit of my friend, Hugh McKean, we must remember to take the 13 work seriously, but not ourselves. 14
This time next year, I'll go from being Mr. President to former Mr. President to some of 15
16 you. But to most, just Steve. 17
But before you get too excited, for these next 120 days...I'm still in charge. And I will do 18 19 everything in my power to ensure the Senate continues to be the Senate. The Upper 20 Chamber, where logic, reason, and thoughtful debate rule the day, not group-think and 21 raw partisanship. Where we embrace what the Senate was designed to do: slow down
22 when needed and deliberate. 23
I will spend these next 120 days ensuring that we leave this institution better than we 24
25 found it. To take care of this institution, and I hope you will ask yourselves how you'll do
26 your part to be that caretaker as well. 27
I have one idea I'd like to impart on how you can do that. It's the same challenge I gave on 28
29 last year's opening day. And that is that we need to build stronger relationships with each
30 other. Get that beer after a long committee hearing. Sit in each other's offices and get lost 31 in conversation. Visit each other in our districts, get to know each other's families. If we 32 can commit to doing the most human thing we can do-build relationships-then we're more 33 likely to solve problems not as Democrats or Republicans, but as Coloradans. Coloradans
34 who care deeply about this chamber, about our democracy, and about our state. 35
Let's do everything we can to remember that we can sometimes be opponents, but we're 36 37 never enemies. We can do that by connecting with each other not just on a policy or 38 political level, but on a human level. 39
I am excited for these next 120 days. But the countdown begins today. So, let's use them 40
41 to their fullest. To make a difference for all the hard working individuals and families
42 across this great state. They're counting on us. So let's get to work. 43
Thank you. 44
45
46
President Fenberg Recognized Minority Leader Lundeen to address the Senate. 47
48
49
50
The text of Minority Leader Lundeen's remarks follow. 51
52
Ladies and gentlemen, fellow Coloradans, thank you for being here. Dear Colleagues, and 53
54 I use those words with consideration, welcome back, it's good to see you. 55
Please join me, if you would, in extending a special welcome to Yemi Mobablade, the 56
57 mayor of Colorado Springs, Olympic City USA and the permanent home of US Space 58 Command. Thank you colleagues. I notice that Aurora Mayor Mike Coffman, former 59 Congressman, is here as well. Mayor Coffman. 60
We now return to the very specific and very special business of legislating-creating the 61
62 laws that govern our society, control our state government, and hopefully make the people
63 of Colorado more free, to live the lives they choose, and pursue the dreams to which they
64 aspire. 65

As we gather here with our aspirations for the policies we are eager to champion, it is critically important we be actively attentive to the perspectives of the people who sent us here with the expectation that we would serve them- and this is an echo in many ways of what the President just said- as the temporary custodians of the sovereignty they inherently possess. A sovereignty that gives them authority to master and control their government in the grand experiment of representative democracy we call America.

In this chamber, it is not our business to raise armies, secure the nation's borders or launch a navy. But that makes the work we do in the next 119 days no less important in the lives of the people we represent. In fact-because the work we do is physically closer to the homes and businesses of Coloradans and it is meted out with local specificity it may in fact be more important.

A word before I move on to policy about how we do that business. Decorum is fundamental to the success of our work, and fundamental to achieving the goals created in representation the sovereignty of the people whom we represent. We must be able to bring disparate conflicting ideas together in a way that is rich with the values presented, and equally rich in respect for the process in the people in whom we engage with that process. The question is, will the noise and obstreperous behavior outside this chamber influence us? Or will we influence, for the better, the noise and challenging behavior outside this chamber?

I would say today, we have already heard echoes of that, and the positive potential influence of this chamber. We heard noise in the house gallery and noise in the rotunda, appropriate in some ways, at the edge of decorum in others. And we heard a homily and prayer presented side by side from a Rabbi and an Imam in this chamber.

I would echo many of the comments that the President has just said about how we conduct ourselves, and I would pull from this speech two words: civility, in our engagement with each other, and integrity in our engagement with each other. Mr. President, again, I thank you for your comments.

Recent reports have given us a stark reality check, painting a picture of Colorado that we cannot afford to ignore.

Just a short time ago, we were ranked by a popular business network (CNBC) as the 4th best place to do business in the nation, but now we find ourselves slipping to the 11th spot. Our state's cost of living has received a dismal D+ rating, and the inflation rate for food has reached levels not seen since 1979, and I graduated from high school in 1977- that was a long time ago.

The statistics are daunting: the price of flour is up 22%, rice and cheese up 20%, and essential items like milk, ground beef, bread, eggs, and coffee beans collectively up 35% in just five years. These numbers represent not just statistics, but the daily struggles of our fellow Coloradans.

Among other challenges, the cost of living is driving our residents away. Denver, once known for its growth and prosperity, witnessed the 9th highest outflow of residents in the country between October and December last year. People who have called this state home for generations, are tapping out and leaving because daily life is becoming increasingly unaffordable, frequently at the hands of the policies we produce in this chamber.

The plight of our small businesses cannot be overlooked either. They are straining under the weight of regulations and burdens imposed upon them by this legislature. A recent survey by the Colorado Chamber of Commerce reveals that the cost of living and the lack of affordable housing are the two biggest barriers to recruiting and retaining workforce talent.

An alarming 86% of our state's business leaders find it more expensive to conduct business in the front range of Colorado compared to other states, primarily due to excessive regulations and mandates.

Affordable housing is fundamental. It's an issue intertwined with our need to reform Colorado's construction defects laws. These laws promote litigation, stifling the construction of much-needed for-sale multi-family housing. The solution to affordable housing necessitates hundreds of billions of dollars of investment, which are currently flowing into homes in other states. Initiatives, like Proposition 123 and public policy responses address only a fraction of the problem. We must entice investment back to Colorado, for that is the only way to tackle the remaining 99% of this housing crisis.

Relief, relief, relief! These are the words that should echo in this chamber and resound throughout our state. 65% of businesses in a recent statewide survey are calling for relief from the regulations that create mandates and increase costs, which cascade onto the backs of the people of Colorado with inevitability. We have heard their voices, and we must heed their call.

Colleagues, friends, fellow senators, we are at a crossroads. The future of our state, the prosperity of our people, and the survival of our small businesses are all hanging in the balance. It is our solemn duty to provide relief to the people and businesses of Colorado. We must work together to alleviate the burdens that have been imposed upon them. Let us advance Colorado to a better glory as a thriving state where businesses flourish, families thrive, and dreams are within reach.

I implore you to join us in this call for relief, to act decisively and swiftly to address these pressing issues, and to ensure that the people of Colorado have the opportunity to lead prosperous lives in the state we all love and hold so dear.

Thank you.

Senate reconvened.

(d.5) TO ADMINISTER THE DUAL LICENSURE STIPEND PROGRAM PURSUANT TO SECTION 25-1.5-503.3;

SECTION 3. In Colorado Revised Statutes, 25-1.5-501, amend (1) and (2); and add (4) as follows:

25-1.5-501. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds that there are areas of Colorado that suffer from a lack of health-care professionals, geriatric advanced practice providers, or AND behavioral health-care providers to serve and a lack of nursing or other health-care professional faculty to train health-care professionals to meet AND SERVE the medical and behavioral health-care needs of communities. The general assembly further finds that the state needs to implement incentives to encourage health-care professionals, geriatric advanced practice providers, and behavioral health-care providers to practice in these underserved areas and to encourage nursing faculty and other health-care professional faculty to teach health-care professionals.

(2) It is therefore the intent of the general assembly in enacting this part 5 to create a state health service corps program that uses state money; federal money, when permissible; and contributions from communities and private sources to help repay the outstanding education loans that many health-care professionals, geriatric advanced practice providers, behavioral health-care providers, candidates for licensure, nursing faculty, and health-care professional faculty hold. In exchange for repayment of loans incurred for the purpose of obtaining education in their chosen health-care, geriatric care, and OR behavioral health-care professions, the health care professionals; geriatric advanced practice providers, behavioral health-care providers, and candidates for licensure will commit to provide health care; geriatric care; or behavioral health-care services, as applicable; in communities with underserved health-care, geriatric care, or behavioral health-care needs throughout the state, and the nursing and health-care professional faculty will commit to provide a specified period of service in a qualified faculty position, AND DUAL LICENSURE CANDIDATES PURSUING A DUAL LICENSE AS A LICENSED PROFESSIONAL COUNSELOR WILL AGREE TO SERVE A SPECIFIC NUMBER OF ACADEMIC YEARS IN A PUBLIC SCHOOL IN A BEHAVIORAL HEALTH POSITION.

(4) IN ADDITION, FOR THE PURPOSES OF INCREASING THE AVAILABILITY OF LICENSED PROFESSIONAL COUNSELORS WHO HOLD A SPECIAL SERVICE PROVIDER LICENSE WITH THE APPROPRIATE ENDORSEMENT, THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY SHALL CREATE A STIPEND PROGRAM TO REDUCE THE BARRIERS FOR SCHOOL COUNSELORS WHO ARE SEEKING DUAL LICENSURE AS LICENSED PROFESSIONAL COUNSELORS. PROVIDING FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE TO SUPPORT SCHOOL COUNSELORS WHO SEEK DUAL LICENSURE AS LICENSED PROFESSIONAL COUNSELORS WILL HELP ALLEVIATE THE MENTAL AND BEHAVIORAL HEALTH-CARE WORKFORCE SHORTAGE AND WILL PROVIDE MENTAL AND BEHAVIORAL HEALTH-CARE SUPPORTS TO STUDENTS.

	" SECTION 1. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:	37
	(a) Over the last sixty years, Colorado families have conserved over three million three hundred thousand acres of working farms, ranches, and private lands across the state;	38
	(b) Since 2000, Colorado has proactively invested in conservation through the conservation easement tax credit program;	39
	(c) The conservation easement tax credit program incentivizes private landowners to voluntarily protect their properties, which creates public benefits to Colorado's lands, waters, wildlife, and people.	40
	(d) The benefits of conservation are unique and wide-ranging. Conservation has contributed significantly to the protection of wildlife habitat, critical wetlands, urban open space, and working farms and ranches.	41
	(e) The conservation easement tax credit program has aided Colorado in reducing its carbon emissions and accomplishing its biodiversity goals, while supporting rural economic resiliency, benefiting all Coloradans;	42
	(f) In pursuit of greater equity in conservation, it is crucial to enhance programs that promote public benefits for all Coloradans; and	43
	(g) Equity in conservation requires ongoing collaboration with private landowners, state and federal public land managers, and counties and municipalities. Underscoring and investing in the inclusion of underserved communities, tribes, and historically marginalized land interests will further amplify these efforts.	44
	(2) Therefore, it is in the best interests of Coloradans to enhance the conservation easement tax credit program."	45

~~(b) Forty percent of children in kindergarten and fifty-five percent of children in third grade have a history of dental decay~~ UNTREATED DENTAL DECAY IS THE MOST COMMON CHRONIC DISEASE OF CHILDHOOD, AND MORE THAN HALF OF CHILDREN SIX YEARS OF AGE AND OLDER BUT UNDER NINE YEARS OF AGE HAVE HAD A CAVITY IN AT LEAST ONE OF THEIR PRIMARY TEETH.

(c.3) SCREENING AND PREVENTION ARE ESSENTIAL TO BREAKING THE CYCLE OF DENTAL DECAY.

~~(a)~~ (b) Provide oral health services, including sealants, to school children; and

~~(b)~~ (c) Assist communities in attaining optimal levels of fluoride in drinking water provided by community water systems as a means of preventing dental decay.

SECTION 2. In Colorado Revised Statutes, amend 25-21.5-103 as follows:

	(a) Child abuse and neglect is a crisis that affects the safety and welfare	27
	of vulnerable children on a global, national, state, and county level;	28
	(b) Finding the appropriate temporary or permanent placement for	29
	vulnerable children is key to helping families successfully navigate the child	30
	welfare system;	31
	(c) Although local placements are sought to mitigate disruption for	32
	these vulnerable children, there are times when a placement in another state is	33
	the best and most stable option;	34
	(d) The interstate compact for the placement of children was created to	35
	allow assessment of placements in other states and to ensure services would be	36
	provided after placement;	37
	(e) However, the existing interstate compact for the placement of	38
	children, established in 1960 and adopted by Colorado in 1975, is now applied	39
	inconsistently among the member states, creating delays and inconsistencies in	40
	placements;	41
	(f) The revised interstate compact for the placement of children will	42
	remove barriers and allow for the timely placement of children in safe and	43 appropriate homes. Additionally, member states will have the opportunity to	44
	participate in a rule-making process that will provide consistency in the	45
	implementation and application of the regulations.	46
	(g) The revised interstate compact for the placement of children also	47
	provides additional clarifying language acknowledging that if a portion of the	48
	statutory language is found unconstitutional by a member state's highest court,	49
	that portion is severable from the compact for that state; and	50
	(h) The first thirty-five states to pass the revised interstate compact will	51
	be included in the drafting process for the regulations.	52
	(2) Therefore, the general assembly determines that:	53
	(a) By adopting the revised language for the interstate compact for the	54
	placement of children, Colorado is ensured a voice at the table and can be a	55
	leader in bringing other states on board and drafting the new regulations that	56
	consider and reflect all Colorado stakeholder viewpoints; and	57

"SECTION 1. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly finds and declares that:
(a) Three in ten adults, including half of 18- to 29-year-olds, in the United States have used a dating site or app;
(b) 31% of women on dating apps surveyed had been sexually assaulted or raped by someone they met through a dating app;
(c) Three in four users experienced dating app-facilitated sexual violence, with the highest rates among LGBTQIA users;
(d) It is relatively easy for minors to create profiles and use dating apps, because most apps do not verify the identity or age of the account holder;
(e) Predators have repeatedly used dating app platforms for serial criminal enterprises for financial fraud, as well as stalking, homicide, and rape;
(f) Colorado is in the top five most dangerous states for online dating;
(g) The small size and inexpensive nature of available tracking devices enable tracking devices to increasingly be used to track people and their property without consent;
(h) From 2019 to 2023, there was a 550% increase in sexual deepfakes published online;
(i) Intimate image abuse, including images that are digitally created or altered, affects survivors' mental health, including a high risk of suicide, and may negatively impact survivors' employment prospects, academic success, and physical well-being; and
(j) The risks and reality of technology-facilitated crimes impacts the public and is a matter of statewide public safety and concern.
(2) Therefore, in order to improve the public health, safety, and welfare of Coloradans, it is necessary to ensure that:
(a) Each online dating service develops thoughtful and transparent safety policies that are posted in a conspicuous place on the service's website or app for users;
(b) Online dating services take prompt remedial action for misconduct carried out through dating sites or apps;
(c) Data regarding the frequency of reported misconduct and the responses of dating sites or apps is tracked and available to consumers;
(d) An online dating service can be held accountable when it fails to act on reports of misconduct or criminal attacks;
(e) Consent is required for tracking a person or another's property; and
(f) Existing intimate image abuse laws include deepfakes and digitally

altered images."	1
