Summary of Legislation

The bill requires the Public Employee's Retirement Association (PERA) Board of Trustees to conduct a study of the portfolio's climate-related financial risk. Climate-related financial risk is defined to include material financial risk posed to the portfolio by the effects of the changing climate, such as intense storms, rising sea levels, higher global temperatures, economic damages from carbon emissions, and other financial and transition risks resulting from public policies to address climate change, shifting consumer attitudes, and changing economics of traditional carbon-intense industries.

The board is required to retain an organization with experience in public sector pension plans through a competitive selection process and enter into a contract by October 31, 2019. Any organization that responds to the solicitation must disclose any association that it had or currently has with any publicly traded fossil fuel corporation or company.

The PERA board must deliver a report to the General Assembly no later than July 15, 2020, that includes:

- a comprehensive analysis of the climate-related financial risk of PERA's portfolio and the exposure of the fund to long-term risks;
- a summary of climate-related financial risk-related engagement activities undertaken; and
- a description of additional action that should be taken, or planned to be taken, by the board to address climate-related financial risk, including a list of proxy votes and shareholder proposals initiated by the board.

Statutory Public Entity — Public Employee's Retirement Association

The bill increases PERA's costs by up to $200,000 to retain an organization to conduct the study required under the bill. The bill will also increase PERA's workload to administer the competitive solicitation and facilitate the study. These costs will be borne by the divisional trust funds of PERA.

Effective Date

The bill was postponed indefinitely by the House Finance Committee on April 8, 2019.
