Summary of Legislation

Under current law, certain cash funds may not have more than 16.5 percent of uncommitted funds remaining in the fund at the end of each state fiscal year based on the amount spent in the fiscal year. The bill exempts the Agricultural Products Inspection Cash Fund in the Department of Agriculture from this limit and creates a limit of 50 percent of uncommitted funds based on the amount spent during the fiscal year.

Background

The Department of Agriculture's Fruit and Vegetable Inspection Program is funded through fees deposited into the Agricultural Products Inspection Cash Fund. The program works under cooperative agreement with the United States Department of Agriculture to perform mandatory and non-mandatory inspections under state and federal law, and upon request.

State Revenue

Inspection fees are based on the amount of products inspected each year. Under current law, in years with more inspections, fees are lowered so that the cash fund does not exceed the uncommitted reserve balance of 16.5 percent. In years with fewer inspections, fees are raised to cover the costs of the inspection process. This bill allows the Fruit and Vegetable Inspection program to set and hold fees in a more stable manner across years. While this may result in cash fund revenue changes in any given fiscal year, the bill is not expected to cause an overall increase or decrease in state revenue. Any potential change in fee structure has not estimated.

Effective Date

The bill was signed into law by the Governor on April 20, 2023, and take effect on August 7, 2023, assuming no referendum petition is filed.
